

Squatter Sovereignty.

We hope some one skilled in the fine arts will present the world with a daguerotype of Know-Nothing squatter-sovereignty. It is certainly one of the most remarkable affairs that the world has seen. The editor of the organ now lets us know that squatter-sovereignty gives the right to unnaturalized foreigners to vote in our Territories; that that was a leading feature of the Kansas bill; and that now that leading feature has been repudiated by the Senate. Now, this feature was not in the bill at all until it came back to the Senate as an amendment from the House; and the Senate agreed to it, simply because they didn't deem it of the smallest importance. The Senate has usually adhered to the correct theory, that the rights of a citizen should follow the responsibilities of one; but no man of sense has yet discovered a man's nest in so insignificant an affair as that of allowing a few men who intend to become citizens as soon as they will, the right of suffrage. We made every white man in Texas, New Mexico, and California a citizen by one sweeping act, and it has not been found so pregnant with ruin as to attract the attention of any party. It is thought by some to be the interest of a Territory to adopt an extremely liberal policy toward foreigners, in order to invite population to the Territory. Two or three of the new States have adopted such a policy for a similar reason. But what has that to do with squatter-sovereignty? The organ has evidently some vague notion of that horrid thing that hampers his imagination, that nothing can relieve but a genuine daguerotype of the thing. It has been generally thought that squatter-sovereignty allowed a Territorial Legislature to make laws for a Territory, to admit or exclude slavery, as they may judge proper. This is affirmed or denied without any reference to the character of the voters. Whether they are all citizens of the United States, or some of them foreigners unassimilated, does not affect the constitutional question. The organ, however, affects to consider this a great affair, and is now jubilant over an act of the Senate, which is only a repetition of a common practice of that body. It is Americanism indorsed, and the editor feels happy. It only shows, however, that Know-Nothingism is too insignificant to provoke a Democratic Senator to alter his opinion or his practice on such a subject. Senators have acted on their opinions, notwithstanding the odium incurred by this anti-foreigner crusade, which an ignorant will attach to any restrictions upon foreigners. We are glad, however, that the brethren are satisfied and gratified. If this is all they wanted, they had as well stand still. But the editor of the organ and his brethren being aware that no adopted citizen should hold any office, and that no Catholic should be trusted with one. What a getting down stairs we have witnessed! First, they didn't mean Catholics, exactly; they meant those who acknowledged temporal allegiance to the Pope. That set all Catholics in this country free, for they confute no such allegations. Then they didn't exactly mean foreigners, for the Western Lights were capital voters; finally, they have come down to the point that unnaturalized foreigners must not vote. They remind us of the poor office hunter, who began with his application for a foreign mission, and still falling down to the office of village postmaster, and lost that; when, as a last resort, he begged the President for an old coat. He got the last favor he asked. The Senate have given an old coat to the poor brethren. We advise the organ-grinder not to strut about in the old coat, and swell about squatter-sovereignty in ridiculous ways, or it will be advisable to take the old coat away.

"Those who Dance should pay the Fiddler."

The houses built by the city for the use of the fire companies, have been used by the Know-Nothing Councils for years as their places of meeting. Of course, lights and fuel are supplied on such occasions, at the expense of the city. Their organ here, for a month or so past, has been filled almost daily with notices of such meetings. By what authority these buildings are thus used, the public are not informed. Whether it is a usurpation, or whether leave has been given by the municipal government, it is none the less a gross abuse, as all just-thinking citizens must admit. The anti-Know-Nothing of this city contribute a very large share to its treasury, and they are not willing to foster a political combination whose action hitherto has cast a blight on all their interests.

The Dallas Treaty has two advocates in the Senate of the United States, Mason, of Virginia, and Seward, of New York. That is a very curious fellowship for two men the very antipodes of each other. We don't understand how the two or three self-styled Americans are acting; but we presume they are inconsistent as usual. They are probably supporting this treaty. They say Americans must rule America, but now they want a partnership with England in ruling America. The Democracy intend that Americans shall rule America—not a part, but all of it. They will make no coalition with foreign governments in the business of Central America. We are very liberal to let England, or any other European power, keep what they have gotten on this continent. We can manage the rest ourselves, without the co-operation of England. No doubt, the Know-Nothings will take the side of England in this controversy. They will, after all, succumb to foreign influence. We shall see.

ROBERT FULTON.—Yesterday, the 24th of Feb., was the anniversary of the death of Robert Fulton, to whose inventive genius, more than to that of any other man, we are indebted for steam navigation. He died in 1815, and his remains, we believe, are deposited in one of the cliffs which surround the little village of Troy, Ind., one hundred and twenty miles below this city, on the banks of the Ohio. It seems fit that that that was mortal of the man should slumber within the echo of that half-animal creation of his noble intellect.

CHANGE OF FORTUNE.—Hon. David C. Broderick, Senator elect from California, left New York for California seven years ago with but money enough to get there, and have $25 on his arrival. He returns a U. S. Senator, and is tendered the honors of the city which he left almost penniless. He is now worth, it is said, $250,000.

THE REV. WILLIAM ARTHUR.—Information has been received at the Wesleyan Mission House in London of Mr. Arthur's safe arrival in Egypt in the early part of January, and that the state of his health exhibited some improvement since leaving England.

IF A correspondent of the New York Tribune states positively that Mr. Buchanan has offered to the Hon. R. J. Walker the place of Secretary of the Treasury, and that the latter has declined the position.

A SONNET TO YOUNG JINGO.

By JINGO, SENIOR.
By Jingo, it is hardly fair
For you to take my bread and butter;
And yet to you I must deliver
By Jingo! every word you utter.
In hobbling verse or laughing rhyme,
Reminds me of the good old time
When I alone, in quiet privacy,
Did stifle with the public eye—
By Jingo!

It was, by Jingo, pleasant then
To read, in all the country papers,
Edited by funny men,
His own reputed "little capers";
But "time's changes" ring the changes.
As our way of life still ranges
Onward, pressing to the front,
Which is "patriotism" and "glory"—
By Jingo!

Still, I am not old and weary,
But can look the "collier through,"
Like a charger young and cheery,
Like a charger young and cheery,
For what he has to do:
You "see" the old and weary
Which was part of his condition,
When with pleasure I recounted
Trifles, which to me might amount—
By Jingo!

Now, I don't start with you
I should like to see you and that;
But, between you and me,
I'm by Jingo—"do you mind that?"
I rather was, in the good time
When we were set to work and
Was sung by every railroad train,
Until the hills resound again—
By Jingo!

Now, Junior, to your Senior, how
And take his name, for he is done:
You "see" his hair has turned grey,
And a little white with yours in one;
And, then, by Jingo, let the world,
And every atom in it hard,
While, all unnoted, we shall be still—
BY JINGO!!

Letter from Washington.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24, 1857.

Messrs. Editors:—The inauguration and its attendant festivities, are getting to be the all absorbing subject of conversation and preparation here. Milliners, dress makers and merchant tailors are kept at work day and night. Hotel and boarding house keepers are putting in readiness their utmost accommodations, and already the inauguration throng is beginning to arrive. Mr. Buchanan and Mr. Breckinridge are expected here about the 25th. It is not true that Mr. Buchanan has invited Mrs. Polk to reside at the White House. This is the destiny of his accomplished niece, who has been his housekeeper for many years, and who was with him at London. His nephew is to be his private Secretary. In this connection I may as well explode another hoax, that Mr. Buchanan's cello has given rise to, and has probably done more harm at this time. It is simply that, while at London he formed an acquaintance and entered into a matrimonial engagement with a Duchess, occupying a relation ship very near the throne; that she is to arrive here with Lord Napier, by the 4th of March, and that the marriage ceremony is to be performed on the occasion of the inauguration, immediately after the inaugural ceremonies. I speak knowingly when I pronounce this a hoax.

I see that the papers are still speculating in regard to the object of Mr. Buchanan's recent visit to Washington. If any of your readers are yet in want of information on that subject, I can tell them the precise object of said visit. It was simply to give the leading Democrats, and others, here an opportunity to deliver themselves of any suggestions that they might see fit to make in regard to the constitution of the cabinet, on the principle that many heads are better than one. I suppose, as the Democrats have given respectful audience to all such suggestions, he returned to Wheatland to make up his own mind on the subject, which will not be definitely known until he sends his appointments to the Senate on the 4th of March.

The Dallas-Clarendon treaty will not be disposed of during the present administration. It is true that Mr. Buchanan has not in the least interfered with its consideration by the Senate; but the matter has been talked over in reference to his known sentiments on the subject, and a large majority of the Senators are disposed to let the country have the benefit of his diplomatic experience and mature judgment.

There is no probability that the Senate will refuse to ratify the Virginia and Maryland money bill that they furnished the general government to construct the first public buildings in Washington City, will pass the House. Such an act sanctioned by the Senate, will forever bar any legal objections that they might raise against the future renewal of the seat of government.

The consideration of the impeachment case of Judge Watkins, is in order for to-day. Of course, his trial will not be brought on this session, as there will not be sufficient time to give him proper notice. I have a copy of the allegations against him, and have written to a legal friend to ascertain the law as to the validity of his defense, all which I will lay before you on the receipt of the latter. I have some interesting facts concerning the wagon road to California, which I will also lay before you as soon as I can spare the space.

Quite an excitement was created among the politicians here this morning, by the circulation of a rumor that Col. Forney was to be the new Secretary of State. However, the most knowing ones stick to it, that General Cass is the man.

Last evening, a miserable rowdy third wail on the dress of a lady promenade with her husband, on Pennsylvania Avenue. The husband happened to see him in the act, and seizing him by the collar, drew a cowhide, which he seems to carry about him for such occasions, and gave the scamp most glorious flogging, which was highly enjoyed by the spectators, after which he was taken away by a policeman.

Intelligence has just arrived here of an apprehended negro insurrection in Fauquier county, Virginia, embracing that and several adjoining counties. The day set seems to have been chosen for the purpose of making a great display of the whites who were in Washington. Several arrests have been made, and great excitement prevails.

A beautiful scene is in preparation here, under the direction of one of our dancing masters, for the inauguration ball. It is a kind of a pantomime or operatic dance, called the "Union Promenade," composed for the occasion, and to be performed by a set from every State of the Union, in a fancy costume, and bearing emblems representing the principal occupations, peculiarities, &c., of the respective States. The dance is to be commenced by thirteen sets from the original Thirteen States, and to be joined by others as they come in, in historical order. Several times are to be played during the performance, commencing with Yankee Doodle, and including Hall Columbia and The Star Spangled Banner. The performance is to be close by a grand finale, in which the individual sets will dissolve, and the beauty, intelligence and gallantry of the nation become so thoroughly mingled, that no participant or spectator can ever forget this beautiful and impressive covenant of national friendship and unity.

NED NELAND.
P. S. I open this letter to add that a messenger has just informed me that warrants have been issued for the arrest of Messrs. Gilbert, of New York, and Davis, of Ohio, who are supposed to be making arrangements for a hostile meeting on Monday. I think there must be some mistake about this matter. I do not think that Mr. Gilbert has yet challenged any one, if he has, it is probably some one outside of the investigating committee.

N. N.
THE NEW CABINET.—Jesse D. Bright.—The quibbles at Washington are still in error about the Cabinet, at least those who in their programmes leave out the name of Jesse D. Bright. We have unquestionable authority for stating that Mr. Bright has been tendered, and has accepted, the position of Secretary of the Interior Department under the new Administration. It is quite probable that, with Mr. Bright in the cabinet, the reconstruction of the will be considerably different from that stated by our correspondent on Sunday morning.

It is to be hoped, if this news prove true, of which we have little doubt, that Governor William Allen, who has been in the Senate since caused by Mr. Bright's resignation, with a man of national reputation, whose appointment would tend to harmonize the party in that State, which appears to be considerably agitated by the strife of warring factions.

Gu. Enquirer.

IF there are twelve railroads in Wisconsin, and already more than five hundred miles completed are in operation.

DEMOCRATIC VICTORIES IN NEW YORK.—We are beginning to receive cheering returns from the town elections on the 9th. In Barton, Toga county, where the sham Republican ticket was elected last fall by a large majority, the entire Democratic ticket has now been chosen. In Montgomery county five Democrats, three sham Republicans and two Know-Nothings have been chosen Supervisors. Last year the Board consisted of one Democrat, three Know-Nothings and six sham Republicans. In Cheung county there has been a complete revolution; the Democrats have elected eight of the ten Supervisors of the county, while the sham Republicans carried but one. Last fall the sham Republicans carried the county by nearly one hundred majority. Now, the Democratic majority on the popular vote is over five hundred. Democracy is ascendant in little Cheung, and the Elmira Gazette ventures the prediction that it will be a long time before it can again be beaten down by blind fanaticism.

A LEARNED WORK.—Professor Peirce, of Cambridge, Massachusetts, who has been delivering a course of lectures before the Smithsonian Institution on "Potential Physics," it is said, has a work on mathematics nearly ready for publication, which is so learnedly written that there is but one man in the world, besides himself, who will be able to read it, and that learned pundit is a Russian. This, of course, will be one of those books without which no gentleman's library will be considered complete.

A MULE FIFTY-NINE YEARS OLD.—The Medical World says there is a mule in possession of a farmer residing near Ballinglass, Ireland, which has been employed in the transit of ammunition, &c., to Vinegar Hill, since 1798.—There is a saying at the South that a white mule lives longer than any other mule. Some years ago one of that color on Colonel Middleton's estate, in South Carolina, was rising of eighty years old, and still at work.

JOHN B. GOUGH.—At the close of his lecture in Chicago, on Tuesday evening, Mr. Gough was presented with a beautiful casket filled with gold coins, and a rich elaborate vase, the whole cost of the testimonial being $500. The presentation was made by Rev. Mr. Curtis, in behalf of "two hundred ladies" of that city.

THE CULTURE OF TOBACCO PROFITABLE.—Captain A. Shade, of Caswell county, N. C., lately sold to a Lynchburg manufacturer some 18,000 or 20,000 lbs. of tobacco at the high price of $35 per cent. It was it is stated, the product of the labor of eleven hands, and realized the handsome sum of about $700 to the hand.

SUIT FOR LOSS OF LIFE AGAINST THE PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY.—Mr. John W. Seibert, whose son Leonard was killed by the recent accident on the Pacific Railroad, in St. Louis, has brought an action for damages against the company for $10,000.

POSTPONED.—Mr. Thackeray, it is stated, has postponed for another year the publication of a new novel. His lectures on the Four Georges continue so popular in England that he has no time for a new serial.

"We publish the following, as it comes from the district interested. We know Mr. McGoffin as a talented, high minded, honorable gentleman, of whom any district may be proud; but it is the business of the Democracy of the district. They know their business better than we do. We hope the question as to who shall be the candidate will be settled early; and we know that all true Democrats will acquiesce in the present crisis, in the action of a convention where there are more than one aspirant:

Messrs. Editors: I was truly gratified to find in the columns of the Lexington Standard, a call upon the Hon. Breckinridge, to allow his name to be presented to the Convention to nominate a candidate to represent the Lexington District, and heartily concur with the editor, that he has not only high claims upon the Democracy of the district, but possesses legislative talents of the highest order. While a member of the Kentucky Senate, he was distinguished by his sagacity, his business; his aptness in debate; his unflinching vigilance and parliamentary tact. Though his first session, he took high position; and I speak from personal knowledge, when I state that as a representative he had no superior, and for equal. Decided in his political opinions, he would give efficient aid to the administration of Mr. Buchanan, for whose political sentiments he entertains the highest regard.

Nominee of the State Convention for Lieutenant Governor, with a political majority of thousands against him; with alacrity he entered the political arena, let fall the gauntlet, and did battle with an ardor and fervor that will long be remembered by his political opponents, and forgotten by the Democracy of the State. While I express my decided preference for Mr. Magoffin, I will, most cheerfully, give my hearty support to the nominee of the Convention.

A JACKSON DEMOCRAT.

IF the following letter was unfortunately mislaid for a week or two; but it suits the times as well now as when it was written. We hope our friends will consider its suggestions:

BATH CO., KY., Feb. 1, 1857.

Messrs. Editors: Since the storm of the 4th of November last there is an apparent calm; but this is no reason that the Democracy should slumber over their political victory. We already see our opponents lurking about the purlieus of Louisville, holding under the ban of secrecy, which they so facetiously throw off and resume, another scheme, and heavily reinforced, the plan of operation is perhaps not completed. What will be the shape, or what the dimensions, we know not. You have done well, in your last week's issue, of recommending the Democracy to place before the people, and information to your numerous readers that the enemy is out. Let him come; the Democracy from the Ninth, the minute legion, lie ready to meet the arms, and keep powder dry for the tag of the traitor and his hirelings. We have been more than pleased at the constant fire of your battery upon his columns and center, immediately in your neighborhood, scattering his sophisms and stories to the four winds, and also your exposure of the executive department refusing the Electoral College to examine the returns of the State election for President. The good work must go on. We have another trial next August to complete the victory. Encourage the Democracy to place before the people for candidates the strongest, the most efficient men. Let there be no undue aspirations—no independents. Let everything be done in decency and good order, and give a long pull, a strong pull, and a pull all together, and success will crown the effort.

Cursory glancing over your list of agents, I discovered you had but few agents in the Ninth District for your valuable paper; and my chief object in addressing you was to recommend the appointment of agents in every county and village. The District embraces a large scope of country—some twelve counties—and though chiefly in the mountains, the home of liberty, are intelligent and reading people. Give them light and reason, and truth will be their leading star.

Love-Spiritualism.—Suicide.
We compile the following narrative from the Philadelphia Bulletin of the 19th:

A little after 7 o'clock, last evening, a singular case of suicide was brought to light at the house of Mr. B. B. Stevens, No. 355 Arch street, above Ninth. The victim was a young medical student, named Charles H. Whipple, nineteen years of age, the son of Dr. C. T. Whipple, of Newcastle, Pa. The latter is President of the bar of that place.

The deceased occupied the front attic of the house at which he boarded, and about 7 o'clock in the evening one of his room mates, upon proceeding to the room, found the door locked. The key was discovered sticking in the lock on the inside, and as no heed was paid to the raps on the door, the family became alarmed and forced the door open.

The persons who first entered the room were horrified at the sight of the young man lying on his back on the bed, dead. He was dressed in his ordinary street clothing.

The envelope of a prussic acid bottle was found on the floor. The young man had some time before been on a visit to his father, and had been in the city for some time. He had attended lectures regularly. The letter carrier had a couple of hours before his death, handed him a couple of letters. After opening and reading one of them, he bought an ounce of prussic acid, and he wanted it for purposes of experimenting, and was not fool enough to kill himself with it. On the back of a white envelope he had written, "O. I am murdered." An envelope, supposed to be the letter that caused his excitement, was found in his room, superscribed in a lady's hand, and postmarked "Salem O., Feb. 17th."

From a diary which he had kept, and letters in his pocket, the following facts were developed. The deceased was at one time located at Salem, Ohio, and his visit West, in January, was to that place. At Salem he became enamored of a married lady, whose name we do not feel liberty to give. The lady was evidently reprobated, and it would moreover seem that the lady was also a spiritualist.

The deceased was desirous of marrying this lady, in spite of every obstacle, and he seems to have been investigating the facts by supposed communications from the spirit world. The relative, in his letters, urged the difficulties in the way of the marriage the young man insisted upon so strongly, and intimated that he was a rich man, and the spirit of Dr. P., that was communicating with him.

It would seem as though one or both of the letters received yesterday afternoon contained information which destroyed the hopes of the deceased, and gave him a last blow, which he could not bear. This hypothesis is strengthened by an unsealed note which was found this morning in a portfolio belonging to the deceased. The following is a copy of the note, only omitting the name of the lady:

"My dearest N—
"I will see you in the spirit form before you will have read this, my last communication on earth. My hopes are blasted forever, and I can never hope to meet on earth. I will die and live with you forever. Farewell. Farewell till I tell you by your side.
"I am yours in heaven
"AS I HAVE BEEN ON EARTH
"CHARLIE."

It is altogether a matter of surmise what was the exact character of the information contained in the letters received by the deceased yesterday; but the sentence, "I am murdered," found written upon the envelope, suggests that death has been or will be caused in some way through his agency, and that remorse as well as disappointment had something to do with his raising his hand against his own life. It is a mysterious affair throughout.

THE ENEMY OF SPIRITUALISM.—Another of the many illustrations of the infamous tendency of spiritualism, last but not least, revealed in New York. It appears that some five years ago, a boy named Phillips, fifteen years of age, was found suspended from a tree by a rope round his neck, and no suspicion of wrong being entertained, he was buried in the cemetery, and he was quietly buried in the grave yard at Nassau, a few miles from Troy. A few weeks ago, at a spiritual circle, some one asked if the spirit of the almost forgotten boy was present, and it was instantly answered in the affirmative. It was asked if he committed suicide, when, through the medium, came the answer that, on an unfortunate occasion, he had come to the knowledge that his own mother was in the habit of having criminal intercourse with a person whose name he named; and further, that to prevent his divulging the fact to his father, she came upon him in his sleep, and drove a nail into his head, killing him instantly, and that she carried his body and hung it to a tree. The young man was startled. A dozen other "circles" were consulted, and at each of them the spirit was present, and the same story. The excitement was so high, that the corner was forced to discontinue the seances. The boy, a base fabrication. The poor mother so foolishly suspected had her fair face vindicated from the double calumny; but alas, she had been the shock, that she is prostrated with grief, and her life is in danger. The boy, however, was never probably raised. What punishment would be too severe for those who, under the guise of spiritualism, tamper thus with the honor and the lives of innocent people?
